PREFACE.

The first edition of the Colored Directory, published in 1908, met with such success that we have felt encouraged to bring out another edition, "The Philadelphia Colored Directory for 1910." This little book, like its predecessor, contains, chiefly, facts concerning the race in Philadelphia without comment. We hope, from year to year, or at least every other year, to make a record of the facts concerning the social and business development of the colored population of this city. Nothing is so telling as facts without comment. There have been many omissions, we believe; although the compiler and four agents have endeavored to cover the field thoroughly. Changes occur so rapidly, however, that absolute accuracy is impossible.

SUMMARY OF PHILADELPHIA'S GOVERNMENT.

History.

Philadelphia was granted a separate form of government in 1683 by William Penn. At that time the city proper had an area of two square miles, with a population of 400. The first year 100 houses were erected. This form of government prevailed until 1691, when the city received a charter naming Humphrey Morrey as Mayor. This charter lasted until 1701, when a new charter and new seal were granted, and Edward Shippen was elected Mayor. In 1789 the city adopted a new seal which was used until the period of consolidation in 1854. At this time the city territory was made co-extensive with that of the territory of the County of Philadelphia, and all independent forms of government within the county were consolidated. These separate forms of government are represented by the twenty-eight memorial lamp-posts on City Hall Plaza. The city adopted a new seal in 1874 that was used until October 5, 1908. The present form of government, approved on June 1, 1885, and adopted by ordinance of Councils in April, 1887, is known as the "Bullitt Bill." The present city has an area of 129.58 square miles, with a population of 1,515,000, and with 345,586 buildings, of which 314,599 are dwellings.

and Charities, Supplies, Wharves, Docks and Ferries, and the Civil Service Commission. The members of the Cabinet in whose selection the Mayor has no control are the presidents of Select and Common Council, Receiver of Taxes, City Controller, City Solicitor, the president of the Sinking Fund Commission, and the president of the Board of Education, who is elected by the board.

The Mayor.

The executive branch of the City Government has at its head the Mayor, elected by popular vote, for a term of four years. He must be at least twenty-five years of age and have been a citizen of the State five years. He is ineligible for re-election for the next succeeding term. His duties are to cause the ordinances of the city and laws of the State to be executed and enforced, to communicate to Councils at least once a year a statement of the finances and general condition of the affairs of the city, also such information as Councils may from time to time require, to recommend by message such measures connected with the city, and the protection and improvement of the government and finances as he shall deem expedient.

Present Charter.

In its main features and general tendency the present charter represents a popular desire to concentrate responsibility and power, to a greater degree than heretofore in the office of the chief magistrate or Mayor of the city, and to define more clearly the respective rights and duties of the executive and legislative branches of the municipal government. To give force to this principle, initiative lies largely in the hands of the Mayor. But while it is true that great powers are conferred by the present charter upon the chief executive of the city, that executive is placed in a position, as regards a certain important section of his own advisers or cabinet, where he can be speedily called to account by the people and made to feel the conserving effect of their desires. This feature of public control grows out of the circumstance that of the fourteen departments under the Mayor and constituting his executive machinery, eight departments are under the control and guidance of officers in whose selection he has no voice.

The departments directly under the Mayor are Public Safety, Public Works, Public Health and Charities, Supplies, Wharves, Docks and Ferries, and the Civil Service Commission.

The members of the Cabinet appointed by the Mayor are the Directors of Public Safety, Public Works, Public Health

City Councils.

The legislative branch of the City Government consists of a Select and Common Council, meeting in regular session on the first and third Thursdays of each month; special meetings being called by the presiding officer either at the suggestion of the Mayor or upon request of Councilmen.

The Select Council has a membership of 47, one Councilman for each of the 47 wards now constituting the city. A member is elected for a term of three years, must be a resident of the ward from which he is elected, and removal from that ward during term of office acts to render his seat vacant. One-third of the members are elected each year. In addition to its concurred legislative powers, Select Council has certain powers peculiar to itself. All appointive officers whose salaries are drawn from the city treasury are subject to confirmation by that body; it also sits as a Court of Impeachment in cases of complaint against city officials.

Common Council has a membership of 80, representation being based upon one member for each 4,000 names on the last completed assessment list, but each ward must have at least one member; no ward at the present time has more than three members. Common Councilmen are elected for a term of two years, and one-half of the membership of this body is elected every year.

All legislation in Councils must be by resolution or ordinance. Each ordinance must be referred to, and reported on, by a committee, have three readings and be passed by a majority vote of all elected members. If an ordinance authorizes a loan or gives extra pay to public servants after service has been rendered or after the contract has been made, it requires a two-third vote to pass. All ordinances may be passed over the Mayor's veto by a vote of three-fifths of all elected members, provided action be taken within five days following that veto. Ordinances passed by Councils must be signed by the Mayor, and such action reported to Councils within ten days: at the next Councilmanic meeting following the expiration of the ten days, if not vetoed, ordinances become laws without the Mayor's signature.

The debt limit of the city is placed at 7 per cent. upon the assessed value of the taxable property as fixed at the last preceding assessed valuation thereon. The tax rate is fixed each year by Councils. The annual appropriation bill is based upon an estimate prepared in the preceding autumn by the City Controller, setting forth the expected revenue of the city for the forthcoming year. This annual appropriation bill cannot allot to the departments a gross sum beyond the limit of such estimated revenue.

City Councils are required to appropriate annually sufficient money to run not only the executive and legislative departments of the city, as indicated herein, but they are compelled to appropriate money for all appointive and elective offices of the city (members of the Judiciary and Mercantile Appraisers excepted), notwithstanding many of these salaries are established by Acts of Assembly.

Departments.

The Department of Public Safety is under the control of a Director appointed by the Mayor. The departmental work is conducted through the Bureaus of Police, Fire, Electrical, Correction, City Property, Building Inspection, Boiler Inspection and Elevator Inspection.

The Department of Public Works is in charge of a Director appointed by the Mayor. The work of this department is conducted through the Bureaus of Gas, Highways and Street Cleaning, Lighting, Surveys and Water.

The Department of Public Health and Charities is under control of a Director appointed by the Mayor. The work of the department is conducted through the Bureaus of Health and Charities, comprising the divisions of Medical Inspection, Nuisance Inspection, House Drainage Inspection, Milk Inspection, Meat and Cattle Inspection, and Registry of Births, Marriages and Deaths.

The Department of Supplies is under control of a Director appointed by the Mayor. He is charged with the duty of purchasing all articles and personal property required in the business of the city.

The Department of Wharves, Docks and Ferries is in charge of a Director appointed by the Mayor. This department has full supervision of the wharves, docks and ferries and all other matters pertaining to the river front interest in connection with navigation, not inconsistent with the government laws concerning navigable streams.

The Civil Service Commission consists of three members appointed by the Mayor. Appointments to positions in all branches of the city government are made from lists furnished by this Commission.

The Receiver of Taxes receives all moneys for taxes, etc., paid to the city of Philadelphia.

The City Treasurer is custodian of all city moneys, including taxes, loans, etc.

The City Controller has absolute control of the payment of all accounts, and without his sanction not one dollar of the city's money can be paid away.

The City Solicitor passes on all legal matters pertaining to the city's business and certifies to the legality of all contracts.

The Sinking Fund Commission has three members: the Mayor, the City Controller and a commissioner elected by a majority vote of City Councils. These commissioners are custodians of money taken each year from current taxation to provide a fund to redeem the city's bonded obligations at maturity.

The Department of Education is controlled by a board of twenty-one members appointed by the judges; the only executive control over this body is the power given to the Mayor of vetoing ordinances of Councils, by which specific sums are appropriated to the Board of Education out of the sum fixed by law.—From "Philadelphia."

DOWNINGTOWN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

The Downingtown Industrial and Agricultural School entered the field of education, in the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania, not as a competitor of any existing institution or of our general school system. Its field of operation is distinct.

It aims to provide for that large number of our youth, who, for varied reasons, drop out of our public schools at the age of fourteen or fifteen, when they have scarcely finished the grammar grades.

These young people have not been trained in any domestic work, they are too young for adult manual labor, skilled mechanics among us are so few that they may not be apprenticed; factories, stores and shops are not open to them. They form a drifting class in our community.

The plan of our school is to keep tab, as best we can, upon every public school in our city and state, and induce these unfortunate young people, who drop out of our public school system, to come into the country where they may become skilled in the trades and learn useful service and at the same time be aspiring for higher things.

There are at present one hundred and three boarding students at the school. More than this number were refused entrance because of limited accommodations.

All students are required to work and to learn a trade. Nine dollars and fifty cents per month cover all expenses for a student.

Through our unique system of self help, a number of worthy boys and girls are actually working their way through school.

THE BEREAN ENTERPRISE.

There is no charity within the bounds of Philadelphia whose history reads more like a fairy tale than the Berean Enterprise, embracing church, kindergarten, building and loan association and manual training and industrial school, of which Rev. Matthew Anderson, D.D., is the founder and director.

Coming to this city thirty years ago, he commenced laboring as a missionary among colored persons. On October 14, 1879, Rev. Dr. Anderson preached his first sermon in a little dark second-story back room, having an audience of fifteen. Rev. Dr. Anderson was an entire stranger in the city, and had undertaken the work without support from any church or missionary board. The only support offered was what he could get by contributions, which consisted of ten dollars a month, on which he lived for a year, eating but one meal a day the greater part of the time. In the meantime, he organized the Berean Presbyterian Church and had it placed under the care of the Presbytery. Within four years he had purchased a large plot of ground on South College avenue, 136x147, and had erected a church and manse at a cost of upwards of fifty thousand dollars. The church was dedicated free of debt May 14, 1891.

In 1884, the Berean Kindergarten was started, which has been carried on ever since. In 1888 the Berean Building and Loan Association was organized. This association has now nearly a thousand members and it has secured for its members over two hundred and fifty homes, having an average valuation of $2000. In 1899 the Berean Manual Training and Industrial School was founded. Commencing with an enrollment of thirty-five, the school has an enrollment now of nearly four hundred.

The primary object of the school was to give an opportunity to young men and women employed during the day to obtain at a nominal cost a good English education at night and at the same time to learn a trade. The school has outgrown its original purpose and it is compelled to hold sessions in the afternoons as well as at night.

The real estate of the Berean Enterprise consists of six buildings, church and manse, and four buildings connected with the school, one large trades building and three dwellings, one of which has been altered for school purposes. The other two are used as dwellings which bring in a small rental.

Two new departments have been opened: First, a boarding hall, where a limited number of young women can secure dormitory accommodations and board, at a nominal price, and where young men, rooming outside, can secure table board. Secondly, a wood turning department. Five new woodworking machines have been installed in the basement of the New Trades Building, with an electric motor, thus placing within the reach of the boys and young men the opportunity of learning wood turning, joining and other similar trades at small cost.

The other departments are Domestic Art, embracing plain sewing, shirtwaist making and dressmaking.

Domestic Science, including cooking and general house-keeping.

Commercial, embracing typewriting, stenography and bookkeeping.

Industrial, including Tailoring, Upholstery and Practical Electricity.

Academic, in this department one can take a good course in English and scientific studies.

The tuition for any one of the evening courses is five dollars a term, except in the second and third term of Third Year Dressmaking, where there is a slight advance in the price. The same is true of the Commercial Course, where an advance of two dollars and a half is asked when typewriting, stenography and bookkeeping are all taken at the same time.

We are happy to announce also the introduction of Mr. Alonzo M. Meeks to the faculty. Mr. Meeks had charge for two years of the Wood Working Department of the Tuskegee Institute, where he was doing excellent work. He is a valuable adjunct to the force of teachers.

Persons wishing further information should write the principal, Rev. Matthew Anderson, D.D., 1924 S. College Ave., Phila., Pa.

Theophilus J. Minton

Sunday evening, April 15, 1909, occurred the death of Theophilus J. Minton. On Saturday he was attending to his business, but awoke Sunday feeling unwell, and six hours later passed away by a stroke of apoplexy. The deceased was the son of Henry Minton, a native of Philadelphia, and born in 1847. His early school life began in the old Raspberry Alley school and continued in the Institute for Colored Youth, first under Jacob C. White, Jr., and later on under E. D. Bassett. He graduated in 1867. As a lad he was inclined to literary pursuits, and was a member of the Frederick Douglass Lyceum. After graduation he represented the Philadelphia "Press" under John W. Forney, at Richmond, Va., until a little later on, when he went to Columbia, S. C., and became head accountant in the office of the State Treasurer, serving all through the reconstruction period.

In 1870 he married Miss Virginia McKee, daughter of Col. John McKee, by whom he had one son, now living, in the person of Dr. Henry M. Minton. While in Columbia he read law at the University, as well as under Robert B. Elliott, and was admitted to the bar of the Palmetto State.

A few years after he accepted a position in Washington becoming chief examiner under the Law Department of the United States Treasury. He was admitted to the bar of his native city in 1880, and continued the practice of his profession with marked success ever since. He was the nestor among the colored practitioners before our courts. He was especially skillful in the adjudication and management of estates, and in that particular outranked his colleagues. The judges and the lawyers of this city all held him in high personal and professional esteem, and his final leave-taking has made a void that is hard to fill.

In nearly all of our public occasions he was in demand as a speaker, and just three weeks prior to his death held forth at Bethel Church in that capacity. He was solicitor for the Pioneer Building and Loan Association, the Auditorium Company, and other corporate bodies. In June, 1907, he married again, his wife being Miss Frances Cromwell, of Boston, a direct descendant of Oliver Cromwell, of Burlington, N. J., who served all through the Revolutionary War. He was one of the founders of the Historical Society, and vice-president since its inception. For several years he was a vestryman and warden of St. Thomas' Church. Besides his widow and son, he is survived by one brother, Joseph O. Minton, of Atlantic City, and several nieces and nephews.—“Philadelphia Tribune.”

REVIEW OF THE MEDICAL PROFESSION OF PHILADELPHIA.

By John P. Turner, M.D.

The Afro-American physician of this city has taken his place with those of the front rank of the profession. We find him ably represented in all movements tending toward the alleviation of suffering, the battle against disease, and the building up of a strong generation. With the physician we find the dentist and pharmacist each contributing his part.

The city of Philadelphia, with its modern hospitals and learned medical societies, can well boast of being the American centre of medical advancement. In this the Afro-American can proudly claim his share of the honor, for he, too, not only has made individual triumphs, but numbers banded together have erected two hospitals, and formed a society for scientific research and advancement, the equal of any.

As briefly as possible we will tell of the Frederick Douglass Memorial Hospital and Training School, the Mercy Hospital and School for Nurses, and the Philadelphia Academy of Medicine and Allied Sciences, these all being operated by colored physicians of our city.

The Frederick Douglass Memorial Hospital and Training School was founded in 1895 by Dr. N. F. Mossell. The building now occupied, 1530-32-34 Lombard Street, was completed in April, 1909, at a cost of $100,000. It is thoroughly modern in every respect, being equipped with the very latest appliances. It is the largest hospital structure in the world operated wholly by Afro-Americans. There are 100 beds. The operating-room amphitheatre has a seating capacity of 150. Plans are being formulated to inaugurate a post-graduate course, beginning in 1910. The State of Pennsylvania appropriated $25,000 to this institution for the years 1909 and 1910. The nurse-training course is thorough. The door of hope is open to that growing number of well educated and refined young colored women who seek to become professional nurses: a calling for which nature seems to have especially fitted them. There is an official news-organ of the hospital known as "The Douglass Messenger." It is published each month, giving news of the institution, as well as news of general interest.

There is an ambulance service, Mr. Andrew F. Stevens is president of the Board of Directors. Dr. N. F. Mossell is medical director. The Douglass Hospital is the second organized in the United States by colored men, the first being the Provident in Chicago.

The Mercy Hospital was founded in February, 1907, by Drs. E. C. Howard, A. B. Jackson, R. J. Abele, and E. T. Hinson. It is excellently located at the corner of Seventeenth and Fitzwater Streets. The institution has eighteen ward beds, besides two private rooms. In October, 1909, a dormitory for the nurses, adjoining the hospital building, was opened. Plans for a new building have already been drawn, and in the near future a modern structure will adorn the present site. The State appropriated $10,000 to this institution for the years 1909 and 1910. The hospital has an ambulance service, and a nurse training school of merit. In every respect the institution is doing a most excellent work. Mr. Walter P. Hall is president of the Board of Directors.

The Philadelphia Academy of Medicine and Allied Sciences was started as a professional club in 1900. In 1903 Drs. Mossell and Coates called a meeting at the office of Dr. J. Q. McDougold. At this meeting new life was infused into the society and it began to flourish. Dr. S. P. Irvin (deceased) was largely instrumental in making the organization occupy the position it does to-day.

This is a body of physicians, dentists and pharmacists bonded together to further scientific research. Meetings are held each month in the assembly room of the Baltimore House, 1438 Lombard Street, at which time cases of interest are presented and papers read. The membership numbers thirty. The society is a branch of the National Medical Association. The officers are as follows:

President—Dr. R. W. Bailey.

Vice-President—Dr. M. N. White.

Secretary—Dr. Grace Duiguid.

Assistant Secretary—Dr. J. T. Howard.

Corresponding Secretary—Dr. A. T. Boyer.

Treasurer—Dr. P. J. Taylor.

Historian and Organizer—Dr. T. G. Coates.

Executive Committee—Dr. T. S. Burwell, Dr. J. H. Boothe, Dr. N. F. Mossell, Dr. A. T. Boyer, Dr. J. P. Turner.

We have one spacious, well-equipped drug store, doing a large business. Dr. W. A. Davis is the proprietor.

HIS BOOK is the work of Negro printers employed in the office of the A. M. E. Book Concern at 631 Pine Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. This is the oldest job printing and publishing establishment owned by colored people in the United States. ¶ We can do better work than this, if we are given more time. This was a RUSH job and some fine points had to be neglected in order to bring it out according to agreement. ¶ We do all kinds of book and job printing. ¶ We print the oldest and best religious newspaper issued in the interest of the race. This paper, The Christian Recorder, was started in 1852. The subscription price is but One Dollar for the year. S S S S
